For the Presevation of Tribal Life

Andean Apprenticeship Retreat

With Andean Priest Zane Curfman June 1st - 5th

We will be working through the rituals and teachings of the great initiation into this 16,000 year-old tradition of nature mysticism brought to a height during the Inka Empire. This fascinating spiritual tradition teaches students how to interact with the Kausay Pacha, the world of 'living energies'. Initiates are taught how to "eat" or "digest" heavy energies that may lead to illness, depression, and conflict. Initiates are also taught to harmonize the human energy field, with the 5 elements and the forces of nature, leading to a high state of personal energy, happiness, and feeling connected to life. learning to blend and harmonize with diverse energy types and open the heart of community.

In this program Mountains, rivers, lakes and caves will each invite us to connect and explore their unique energy. The rituals of the Hatun Karpay (Great Initiation) are a process of development. This training primarily addresses the work of attaining the fourth-level marked by the eradication of fear and fear-based behavior, recovering and trusting your natural self, and the realization that personal power is based on the power of the Munay (love). Starting a dialog with nature beings, and creating a sacred environment. Allowing you to invoke and make offerings to the Apus and Nusta's where you live or any other location for extra energy, help to achieve your goals. To further work in the Andean Path this dialog with nature is truly our greatest teacher.
